MOUNT MEENAHGA.

Mount Meenahga.

A Summer Home in the Shawangunk Mountains

1,500 FEET ABOVE SEA LEVEL

U. E. TERWILLIGER & SON, PROPRIETORS.

Post Office Address:
ELLENVILLE, ULSTER COUNTY,
NEW YORK.

OPENS JUNE 1st,
CLOSES OCTOBER 1st to 15th.

Mount Meenahga

IS LOCATED on the westerly slope of the Shawangunk range, two miles from the village and railroad station of Ellenville and one hundred miles from New York City.

The Shawangunks, which rise to an altitude of twenty-five hundred feet, extend from the Hudson river at Kingston in a southerly direction into the northern portion of New Jersey. On either side of the range lie the beautiful valleys of the Wallkill and the Rondout with their winding streams and scattered hamlets; while the mountains of the Highlands and Catskills form rugged backgrounds against the distant horizon. Precipitous slopes and deep, wooded gorges add a grandeur and picturesqueness to the scenery hardly to be surpassed this side of the Rocky mountains.

In the very heart of this romantic range, at an altitude of fifteen hundred feet and between deep ravines which form its natural boundaries, lies the tract of more than five hundred acres which comprises the Mt. Meenahga estate.

The immediate property and the thousands of acres of mountain wilds adjoining abound in crevices and caverns, with glens and nooks of marvelous beauty. The great variety of wild flowers, vines and ferns which soften the bold outlines of the rocks and ledges are a constant delight to the botanist; while the student of geology may discover much of absorbing interest in a study of formations peculiar to the Shawangunks.

Here in this mountain retreat is assured, throughout the summer months, the average low temperature natural to the altitude. The atmosphere is clear and invigorating and gentle breezes from mountains and uplands far to the southward are in constant play.

Springs of the Purest Water rise far up the hillsides above the house and cottages, some of them having a temperature but little above that of ice water.

An analysis of Mt. Meenahga spring water has recently been made by the eminent chemist, Charles F. Chandler, Ph. D., LL. D., a copy of which will be found on a succeeding page of this circular.

The rocky bed of the entire region is covered with strata of slate and shaly soil through which water quickly percolates, assuring absolute exemption from malarial influences.

On a picturesque ledge facing northwest stand the HOUSE AND COTTAGES. All of the buildings are substantially constructed and especial effort has been made to render them attractive and in harmony with their natural surroundings. From the porches and many rooms in the main house, as well as from all the cottages may be enjoyed extensive and varied views. Looking across the fertile valley of the Rondout, the bold Catskills bound the landscape forty miles to the northward. Moving toward the south, the distant hills of Sullivan and Ulster counties complete the unbroken chain of mountain and upland which stretches to the Delaware Water Gap, slowly to vanish in the purple haze of the Blue Ridge. In the immediate foreground is the village of Ellenville, twelve hundred feet below the level of the house. The Rondout creek winds gracefully through the valley and the broad fields with hamlets scattered here and there complete the picture of enchanting beauty. In the constant play of light and shadow the panorama is ever changing, and the evening sunset lends even added grandeur to the scene.

Reading Room and Library. In close proximity to the main house is the "Library Building," the first story of which is designed and used exclusively as a reading room. It is supplied by the proprietors with daily, weekly and monthly papers, magazines and reviews. The library, which embraces books of reference and those of popular authors, is free to guests. There is also a smaller library in the "snuggery" of the main house.

All halls and public rooms in the main house are heated by steam and the entire house, as well as the library building, is lighted by gas. Every room has an electric bell, and the larger sleeping rooms and all of the public rooms are provided with open fire-places or fire-place stoves.

There are two hundred and twenty feet of broad, continuous piazzas; also porches and balconies for public and private use.

The toilet rooms are fitted with the best sanitary appliances (all pipes outside of house), and the sewage is carried through vitrified pipes for more than a mile down the mountain side.

There is a complete system for protection against fire, with modern appliances and abundant water on every floor.

From one hundred and fifty to one hundred and seventy-five people can be accommodated in the house and cottages.

A Telephone in the house connects with the Western Union telegragh office and with the offices of excellent physicians in Ellenville. There is also a long distance telephone connection with New York city and other points.

Daily Mail. The mail will arrive and depart twice each day, Sundays excepted. New York papers subscribed for through the House will be delivered in the morning on each week day.

GOLF. The golf course is beautifully situated on grounds adjoining the main house. While not a long course, slightly over a mile in length, the plays are interesting in character and variety, and the invigorating air and picturesque mountain scenery lend added charm to the game.

There will be a season charge of five dollars to each person for the use of the course, a reduction being made for additional members of the same family.

Bowling Alley. A separate building, especially constructed for the purpose, contains two regulation alleys and a hall for general amusement and entertainments.

Tennis Courts. There are two excellent double courts and a CROQUET GROUND which afford opportunity for indulgence in these popular games.

Diversion along other lines is secured by entertainments of various kinds arranged and conducted by the guests; readings, amateur theatricals and card parties being of frequent occurrence. The management assures its cheerful and hearty co-operation in these, as in all else tending to promote the congenial, homelike feeling that pervades a Meenahga household.

Drives and Walks. There are several miles of well graded roads on the property, all of which are dressed with shale. Some of them lead over the hill tops, commanding even more extended views than are obtained from the house and cottages, while others wind among the giant trees of the original forest down into the deep gorges, disclosing new beauties at every turn. The many paths and mountain trails running out from the house in every direction (those to near-by points are covered with shale, affording dry walks immediatly after a rain) have each an objective point. Under the Ledge, South Overlook, Hanging Rocks, the Glen, Meenahga Falls and Solitude are names of several points of interest suggestive of the varied scenery and attractions at Mount Meenahga. Numerous summer houses and rustic seats are placed at convenient intervals along the walks and drives over the entire property.

"Sam's Point," the crest of the mountain, rising two thousand three hundred and forty feet above sea level, is three and one-half miles from the house by road. This road has been extended to LAKE MARATANZA, a mile distant, where there is a picnic lodge for the accommodation of excursionists. There are also facilities for bathing and boats may be rented at a moderate charge. The remarkable views to be obtained from this elevation are thus easy of access and the drive from Mt. Meenahga is exceedingly interesting and attractive. A most enjoyable walk is also afforded by trail to "Sam's Point" and the adjacent region of Cragsmoor.

The resorts at Lake Minnewaska and Lake Mohonk are distant from Mt. Meenahga twelve and twenty miles respectively. The drive to Minnewaska, via Lake Awosting, leading along the bold face of the mountain, is one of the most picturesque in the entire region; the return drive may be made through the beautiful Rondout valley.

Horses with single and double conveyances and careful drivers are kept by the proprietor and may be hired at reasonable rates. The roads in the vicinity are generally good, and the varied attractions of mountain and valley make driving especially enjoyable.

The Ice Caves of the Shawangunks, renowned among geologists as one of the best examples of this kind of ice preservation in the country, if not in the world, are phenomena most remarkable and interesting, and amply repay the two mile tramp over the trail leading to them, that one may enjoy a snowball in August and behold the countless tons of ice preserved in their cavernous depths through the hottest days of summer.

Ellenville, two miles distant, affords the guests of Mount Meenahga many of the advantages of a village home. Here are superior physicians, six churches of various denominations, well stocked stores, three banks, and the conveniences of an intelligent and progressive community. The population is about three thousand and the village enjoys the reputation of being one of the most attractive and healthful towns in the state.

Accessible by New York, Ontario and Western R. R., stations in New York at Forty-second Street and Franklin Street, North River—same stations as the West Shore road.

Since the close of last season the New York, Ontario and Western have completed a new division of their road from Port Jervis to Kingston via Ellenville. By this connection now afforded with the Ulster and Delaware and the West Shore railroads at Kingston, Ellenville is easily accessible not only from the Catskills but from Canada, the Adirondacks, Lake George, Saratoga, etc., and the mountain resorts of New England.

Mt. Meenahga, as a natural center in this section of the Shawangunk region, is thus more easy of access than ever before to parties returning from resorts more remote from New York, Brooklyn and adjacent cities.

A direct route is also now open to residents of cities throughout the central and western portions of the state via the West Shore from Albany to Kingston and the Ontario and Western to Ellenville.

Facilities are afforded, as well, for connection with the Erie at Port Jervis

Schedule of trains will be furnished on application when summer time-tables are issued.

Tickets for Ellenville sold and baggage checked through at R. R. Company's stations and ticket offices in New York; also in Washington and Philadelphia at stations of Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Stage or private conveyance will be sent to the station to meet guests on arrival of any train, ON NOTIFICATION. Fare by stage, seventy-five cents; trunks fifty cents. The drive to Mount Meenahga is made in forty minutes.

Rates of Board: June and September, single rooms, $12 to $24; double rooms, $20 to $35. July and August, single rooms, $14 to $28; double rooms, $22 to $40. Day rate throughout season, $3 to $4.

Cottages. There are five cottages distant from one to three hundred yards from the main house. They are substantial and attractive buildings, lathed and plastered throughout, with liberal porches, outside blinds and all of them have been recently fitted with SANITARY PLUMBING, including hot and cold water. Each cottage contains a sitting room, with open fire-place, and from five to seven sleeping rooms; furnished plainly but completely with carpets or mattings on the floors, hardwood bedroom suits, mattresses and good springs. The cottages rent at from $175 to $250 for the season. At these prices occupants care for their own cottages, but arrangements may be made for such service as may be required, at a moderate charge per week. For more complete description of cottages see printed slip, sent on request.

Table Board in regular dining room of the main house $9.00 per week for adults and children; prices for maids, and for children in maids' dining room, quoted on application giving age of children and requirements.

Applicants for accommodations will please state number of adults, children and servants in party, number and character of rooms required, date of arrival and length of stay.

A carefully managed LAUNDRY doing good, hand work is conducted by the proprietor on the premises. Outside parties will not be allowed to solicit or collect laundry from guests of the main house or cottages.

Mt. Meenahga is kept as a STRICTLY TEMPERANCE HOUSE. Visitors or guests are not expected to arrive or depart on the Sabbath.

Dogs are not taken.
